>From Eric Dynamic (599-4752 / box 278, berkeley, 94701)
=> I have some suggestions about revising the presentation of this system, in particular <NEXT>/<PREVIOUS> or <DONE> items are missing in key places, and I was not able to index my ad offering services. This is what I do for a living, I'd like to sit down with someone who runs this and discuss the operation of it. I offer my services in revising the system, if you're interested. Think this system should have a bright and extensive future, would like to see it succeed. Thanks.

Carl -- A message indicates that you've added a new forum called Q/A and yet I can't find it. I'm TRYING to use the new interface, but still finding blind alleys. Like, I press BACKUP and it goes somewhere other than where I "was" on the previous screen. I press OPTIONS and it doesn't include the one I want, like "select the forum Q/A" or "show me the available FORUMS." I press HELP and it doesn't help.
Thank you for the nice terminal though, and having it in the laundromat means I can continue to explore CM while also "doingsomthing." Sincerely, thanks, Ray Bruman. By the way, the prompt on my screen says pick <FINISHED>. How, please? "Options literallys says "you have none!" !!!

Hi, Carl, Ray here. Found Q/A thanks. Is there a way to scan ALL msgs or ALL in a forum, without ANY index? Like,
ALL restaurants, especially since many index words are blind alleys, only wistful suggestions for future msgs. This guessing game "Russian? nope, try another... Hasque.. nope, try another" gets old fast. So why not "OK, I give up, show me all of them"? We all like libraries where you can roam the stacks, don't we? Re previous message, I found how to touch FINISHED. Elegant but a bit too elegant, to have the "hot button" disguised as the NAME of the "hot button." in the instructions for its use. Experts chuckle, novices give up, human interface designers wince.

Hi. This is Evelyn at the West Berkeley Library. I talked in-depth to five library patrons -- who all were enthusiastic. And then, I spoke more briefly to two more.

Two people left messages (on CM's quarter) and four signed up on the Community Memory mailing list.

The library staff people were sensational.

See you later, Walter Pater.

Message adaqj should be put into the "person-to-person" forum. Seems to be inclined towards making contact, no?

SOME OF THE THINGS THAT ARE WRITTEN DONT MAKE ANY SENSE. IT IS TYPICAL OF THE PEOPLE AND BULLSHIT IN BERKELEY.

Greg-

This is Carl at Claremont. I've got the new stuff installed, but had to use my "spare" diskette, as the libo diskette wouldn't boot. Also, the hot glue on one side of the shelf here has come apart. I've got a temporary thing dropped up, but we should fix it soon. On my way to main now..

From cmoper Wed Dec 27 16:14 PST 1989

Greg -

Carl here again. I've got libm converted over. I couldn't hear any fan noise, so I'm not swapping CPUs. I'll be back soon. Did you just send me a shutdown message?

You need to expand the events listings to a greater area, like SF and all that. otherwise OK.

Handrails at the library is an interesting topic for discussion well worth discussing on this topic-discussing forum for discussion, if you will.

And you probably will, won't you?!

That's the great thing about these laundry room bulletin boards. You'll do and say, be heard and hear, just about anything, as long as the fabulous babe who you think is alone but whose boyfriend inevitably arrives to pick her up isn't standing over you shoulder reading wht you write,'as she happens to not be doing over mine right now.

Fuck off.

About one week before Christmas last year, I saw a book in a bookstore that I thought would make a good gift for a close friend of mine. I picked up the book, perused it for a while, and became more and more convinced that my friend would like it. I looked into my wallet and found that I had just enough money to purchase the book, which gave me a certain sense of warmth.

With book in hand, I started toward the register.

Halfway there, I stopped.

I turned around, marched back to where I picked out the book, and placed the book

Handrails at the library is an interesting topic for discussion well worth discussing on this topic--discussing forum for discussion, if you will.

And you probably will, won't you?!

That's the great thing about these laundry room bulletin boards. You'll do and say, be heard and hear, just about anything, as long as the fabulous babe who you think is alone but whose boyfriend inevitably arrives to pick her up isn't standing over you shoulder reading what you write, as she happens to not be doing over mine right now.

first of all, you are allowed to slide down the stairs. Did somebody tell you you could not?? Second of all, try reading a book at the same time as sliding down the stairs. It will be an unforgettable experience.

Thirdly, whatever that means, there is no third thing.

Fourth, try taking the elevator to the top of a very high building--preferably at a time when there aren't many people also riding the elevator--and then when you are on the top floor, press the bottom floor and when it starts going at optimum, jump. Yes, jump off the floor of the elevator and see what happens. (Hint: ever experienced weightlessness??) And they say that you have to weight for an elevator.

If you want some ideas of more outlandish fun and other activities that border on pranks, look for more messages from SNAZZY ROLL, or check (these days--eeach--) out a copy of RE Magazine issue about "Pranks" available in many 'alternative' newsstands.

One of the newsstands that makes RE Magazine available is Buster's on Folsom in San Francisco, I mean Francisco, I mean...never mind. Other issues of REsearch Magazine have covered topics such as body piercing and weird B-movies...

Do you ever want to borrow library books in a small midwestern town that wont give you a library card? Here's what you do:

(Apart from making fast friends with the librarian...) Open up the spine of the book and remove the thin metallic grey strip that trips the beeper when the book is not de-sensitized as you check it out. This enables you to place any book in your picnic satchel, and depart that shit midwestern library with impunity.

Request more prank hints from Snazzy Roll via this new, weird machine.

From smoper Tue Jan 30 17:54 PST 1990

If it is not apparent to a Blacks in the United States and throughout the world, let me make it quit plain that the white man is the devil, and since all the prophets have tried to reform him and failed, i think it is fair that they be removed from the face of the earth. I do not say this out of racism, there track record speaks for its self. They are 100% evil and were made to lie, cheat, steal, and murder. Now if these are not qualities that make up a devil, what are they?
